Brazil: U.S. 'Spy Plane' Wreckage

A wrecked "spy plane" with U.S. markings has been found in the Brazilian jungle, according to a Sao Paulo newspaper. Marked "U.S. Air Force--X-62--AF Serial Number 53.72," the plane may have been a U-2 that apparently crashed several years ago, Brazilian officials indicated. The investigating team reported that "several meters of exposed 35-mm film were found inside the plane, as well as other electronic parts, special photogrammetric cameras, and other devices that are only used in combat planes." The wreckage was located in the interior of Maranhao State.
